Who we are

Luigi Locati, a man with the love for arts, opened a handcraft shop at the end of the 19th century devoting himself to the leather decoration of covers for sacred books. He thus began in 1908 to manufacture only elegant leather articles in the heart of Milan for the high-class socialites. That's the beginning of the story of Leu Locati. Over 100 years later, the Leu Locati dynasty continues. Locati bags have been accompanying royalties and stars throughout the years, who have recognized the refined design, top quality and precise craftsmanship of the artisans that makes every bag a work of art. Paolo Amato continues to ensure that the tradition of creating luxury leather goods stays strong. The love and passion for handbags seems to be hereditary, almost a part of the family's DNA passed down from generation to generation, even extending amongst the artisans who handcraft every piece.
